POLICE NOW BELIEVE

STORY HAS BEEN TOLD

The developments in the case yesterday practically clear up all the mysteries, and the police believe that the affail has now been told, with the possible exception of some unimportant minor details. They are convinced that the story related by Clyde now is perfectly straight and they do not believe that there was any one else implicated in the affair. The bruises upon the body of the old man are accounted for by the story of the lad that he pushed him over the rocky bottom of the caye, and the cut in his eye is exblind men in the township in need of assistance. The commissioners are then body of the old man are accounted for by the stery of the lad that he pushed him over the rocky bottom of the cave, and the cut in his eye is explained in the same manner. The matter that is puzzling the officers yet is whether or not the old man's clothes were under the rock where they were found, all the time, or whether clothes were under the rock where they were found, alt the time, or whether they were taken there later by Clyde. The lad deckres that they were never moved by him after he hid them the first time, and he declares that the towel was on the inside of the bundle. When the clothes were found the towel was four feet from the bundle and the officers maintain that the bundle was disturbed by some one.

This explains the unsuspecting confidence of young Felt when he went up the hill with the old man, and his willingness to tie him with the rope.

IS BITTER FEELING AGAINST OLD COLLINS

The awful state of moral degeneracy disclosed by the death of Collins and the widespread influence developments have proven he had over boys in that portion of the town has raised the strongest sentiments against the old man among the residents of the Warm Springs neighborhood and oth a portions of the town. Although the deed done by Clyde Pelt is one of the larkest hue, there is hardly one but is easy to offer an excuse for the lad, and the sympathy of all is with him. The fact that Collins took chloroform before having the boy cut his broat is looked upon as demonstrating that the old man was a physical coward as well as a moral coward, and nas plausibility to the story that he futured some one to kill him, by show-by that he was too much afraid of pain to do the job aimself, yet had not the moral courage to trace the adversities of life to the natural end. Phoenix, Ariz. April 5.—Twenty thousand Indians on the Sacaton reservation are suffering from famine, which, if allowed to continue, is certain to result in fearful mortality among the Pima and Maricopa tribes. Agent Hadley is here to secure temporary relief for the Indians and to urge that petitions be sent to congress asking the Washington authorities to provide means to avert the disaster which he says is sure to come unless the Indians are given water or supplies. White ranchers above the reservation have diverted all the water and the Indians have had none for many months. They are abandoning their ranches and their cattle are dying by scores for lack of feed. Relief has been sent from here and petitions are going forward to Washington.

HANNA'S LABOR TALK

Says He Believes in Unionism and Employers Must Make Concessions.

Philadelphia, April 5.-Senator Hanna was the principal speaker at the closing session of the sixth annual meeting of the Academy of Political and Social Science. He divided his subject with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and the question of the relation of capital and labor was discussed by Beatrice, Neb., April 5.—The State Bank at Ruskin, Neb. was robbed of $16,000 in cash at midnight last night. The bandits, supposed to be five in number, gained entrance to the bank by prying up a window and then opening the front doors of the building. Holes were drilled in the doors of the bunk safe and large charges of nitro-glycerine exploded simultaneously. The explosion blew both doors off their hinges and made access to money box easy. The robbers took all the currency and paper money in the bank.

Labor, and the question of the relation of capital and labor was discussed by the two speakers. Senator Hanna's copic was 'Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration," and Mr. Gompers spoke on "Its Possibilities and Limitations." Senator Hanna began his address by referring to the efforts of the National Civic Federation to effect the condition of industrial peace.

The industrial department of the Civic Federation, he said, although only two years old, had settled seven strikes in three months and prevented.

"While decisions of such matters have, as in the Alahama case, principally concerned war vessels and expeditions by sea, it cannot be doubted that aid given to an army engaged in actual warfare stands on the same footing as aid given to a fleet so engaged, since both equally involve a taking part by the neutral in furthering the military operations of the bel-
